

I am disturbed by the proposed rule changes that would give priority to LPFM stations over current FM translator service.

My family has listened to K-LOVE in communities all over the country for several years. As a national service, which is often listened to on FM translators, K-LOVE is able to build a nationwide community of listeners who are committed to wholesome values. It is a comfort to know that whenever we are in a community served by K-LOVE, we are guaranteed access to family-friendly radio programming.

Many of the communities currently served by K-LOVE through FM translator services do not have the resources to create the same programming now being provided through K-LOVE. If the proposed rule changes are enacted these translators could be forced off the air, leaving communities without a family-friendly programming option on which they can rely.

Please help keep these local communities, and in turn our country, strong by allowing the positive and encouraging programming provided by K-LOVE through FM translator services to retain priority.
